

I have explored many styles and mediums in my learning process. Drawing and the language of drawing have always informed my pieces. Some of my current work uses text as a starting point to tie my design interests to my personal and political reflections. In other pieces I am exploring the metaphoric transformation of landscape imagery from my local environment, as always, in terms of personal and political reflections.